Therapy oils

All our aromatherapy treatments use the purest essential oils and fine blends of coconut, soy, almond and other oils as carriers to condition and moisturise the skin.

Essential oils are the pure aromatic volatile essence of plants usually extracted by distillation. Each oil has specific healing properties that transform aromatherapy into a treatment for the mind and body.

The natural healing powers of the essential oils intensify the effects of the aromatherapy treatment.

To fully benefit from the healing properties of aromatherapy we recommend that you do not shower for at least 1 hour after your treatment has ended.

At the end of each treatment, please relax a few minutes in one of the lounge chairs and enjoy our natural blend of ginger tea and local spices with its soothing and relaxing properties.

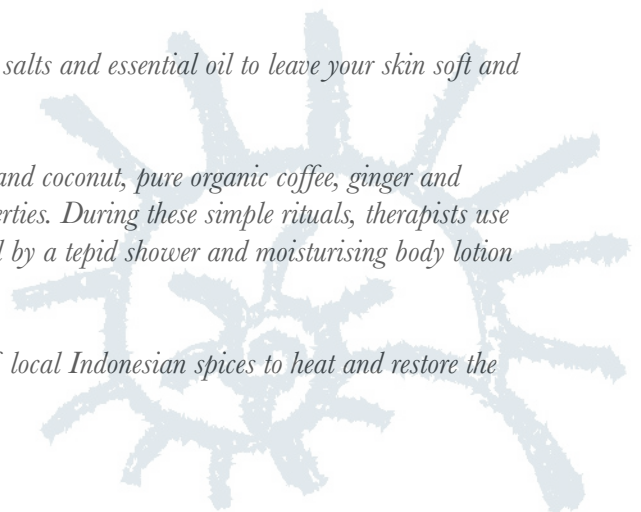

Natural Scrubs, Polishers, Rituals

Daily renewal of the skin can be approached in different ways. Cleansing and exfoliating the skin removes dead skin cells, toxins held on the skin surface and encourages cell rejuvenation.

Select among different nutrient rich scrubs based on the use of marine salts and essential oil to leave your skin soft and cleansed and to improve circulation.

Alternatively opt for a combination of tropical fruits such as papaya and coconut, pure organic coffee, ginger and cucumber with their natural exfoliating enzymes and detoxifying properties. During these simple rituals, therapists use gentle circular movements to polish your body. Treatments are followed by a tepid shower and moisturising body lotion based on natural ingredients.

Body rituals based on ancient traditional recipes use a combination of local Indonesian spices to heat and restore the body.
